Description:

The report supports the recommendations of the Sex and Relationships Education Expert Panel which was presented to the Cabinet Secretary for Education on 13 December 2017. The report focuses on the following areas: the impact of the narrow and non-statutory status of the current Sex and Relationship Education curriculum on learning and experience; core principles and thematic areas of the new Sexuality and Relationships Education curriculum; effective pedagogy and assessment for a rights and gender equity based, inclusive, holistic, creative, empowering and protective Sexuality and Relationships Education curriculum; the urgent need for training, leadership, resources, support and a robust research base to ensure high quality Sexuality and Relationships Education provision of learning and experience.
